almost all museums hold photographs in their collections and museum professionals and their audiences engage with photographs in a myriad of ways yet despite some three decades of critical museology and photographic theory and an extensive debate on the politics of representation outside art museums almost no critical attention has been given specifically to the roles purposes and lives of these photographs within museums this book brings into focus the ubiquitous yet entirely unconsidered work that photographs are put to in museums the authors argument is that there is an economy of photographs in museums which is integral to the processes of the museum and integral to the understanding of museums the international contributors drawn from curators and academics reflect a range of visual and museological expertise after an introduction setting out the range of questions and problems the first part addresses broad curatorial strategies and ways of thinking about photographs in museums shifting the emphasis from curatorial practices and anxieties to the space of the gallery this is followed by a series of case studies of exhibitionary practices and the museum strategies that support them the third section focuses on the role of photographs in the museum articulation of difficult histories a final section addresses photograph collections in a digital environment new technologies and new media have transformed the management address and purposing in photographs in museums from cataloguing practices to streaming on social media these growing practices challenge both traditional hierarchies of knowledge in museums and the location of authority about photographs the volume emerges from photolec a hera funded project on museums and the photographic legacy of the colonial past in a postcolonial and multicultural europe histories of artists personal possessions shed new light on the lives of their owners artists are makers of things yet it is a measure of the disembodied manner in which we generally think about artists that we rarely consider the everyday items they own this innovative book looks at objects that once belonged to artists revealing not only the fabric of the eighteenth century art world in france but also unfamiliar and sometimes unexpected insights into the individuals who populated it including jean antoine watteau françois boucher jean baptiste greuze and elisabeth vigée lebrun from the curious to the mundane from the useful to the symbolic these items have one thing in common they have all been eclipsed from historical view some of the objects still exist like jean honoré fragonard s color box and jacques louis david s table others survive only in paintings such as jeansiméon chardin s cistern in his copper drinking fountain or in documents like françois lemoine s sword the instrument of his suicide several were literally lost including pastelist jean baptiste perronneau s pencil case in this fascinating book the authors engage with fundamental historical debates about production consumption and sociability through the lens of material goods owned by artists the free online edition of this open access publication is at getty edu publications artists things and includes zoomable illustrations free pdf and epub downloads of the book are also available
